

BERTOTTI'S LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT ELECTED ASLA'S NORTHERN CALIFORNIA CHAPTER PRESIDENT

Juanita Salisbury, PhD, Bertotti Landscaping, Inc.'s landscape architect, has recently been elected president of the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA/Northern California chapter). The ASLA, a national professional association representing landscape architects, promotes the profession of landscape architecture and advances the practice through advocacy, education, communication and fellowship. The organization has more than 18,000 members, with chapters representing all 50 states, U.S. territories, and 42 countries around the world.

"Becoming president of the ASLA's Northern California chapter gives me the opportunity to address issues important to landscape architects in the bay area as well as represent our chapter on the national level," says Salisbury.

Salisbury joined Bertotti Landscaping in January 2007 and concentrates her efforts in the design-build area. She possesses a broad range of experience, from commercial and site planning to her specialty—high-end residential design.

"Working with Juanita gives our clients the flexibility of a turnkey operation," says Kim Bertotti, who owns the firm with her husband Tony. "From the initial creation of conceptual designs, working drawings, and permit documents—through the construction and maintenance phases—Juanita works closely with all the Bertotti team members to realize the landscapes our clients have envisioned.

We're proud and supportive of her drive to play an important role in this key professional organization."
